DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

3. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it should be within the range 50 to 150 words. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Objection

4. Regarding claim 12, the limitation "can adapt" in line 4, renders the claim to be confused since the examiner is not sure whether the limitations follow the phrase "can adapt" are parts of the claim. Appropriate correction is required. Applicant is suggested that the phrase "can adapt" can be replaced with "adapts".

For the purpose of examination, examiner assumes the limitations follow the phrase "can adapt" are parts of the claim.

Still refer to claim 12, the ferric is mistyped.

Double Patenting

5. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

6. Claims 12-22 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 12-17 19, 21 of copending Application No. 10/501,724 (Herein after refers to as 724). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they are claiming the same subject matter.

Regarding claim 12 of the instant Application and claim 13 of the 724, for example, it is clear that the limitations of the claims are substantially identical except for the variation of words, but the claims are directed to the same subject matter and are performing the same functions in a similar manner. Because the claims claim the same subject matter, they are not and cannot patentably distinct because if allowed, would be covered by any patent granted on that copending application.

Claims 13-22 are similar in scope with claim 114-17, 19, 23 and therefore are rejected for the reasons set forth for that claim of claim 12.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

8. Claims 12-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vernon et al. (5,021,738).

With respect to claims 12-22, Vernon et al. discloses an eddy current probe for electrical measurement methods, comprising a substrate with a resting surface and the resting surface comes to lie on a test piece (Figure 2); two electrical components (12, 22) mounted on the substrate such that the probe with the substrate is flexible and the probe with the substrate can adapt itself to a different radii of curvature of the test piece (Figures 4-8); a backing with a ferrite material that at least partly covers at least one electrical component and is formed elastically; an exciter coil as a first electrical component; and a signal coil as the second electrical component (Coils 2-4), wherein the exciter coil encloses a coil section of the signal coil and the signal coil and the exciter winding lie in one plane face of the substrate.
